6. His excellence President Kagame Speech to Indangamirwa XI

Addressing Indangamirwa graduates, President Kagame pointed out that the essence of Itorero comes from Rwandan cultural traditions whereby the country invests in every citizen to ensure that they become useful members of the society.

"The training you received to work together in harmony was not only about military drills but it is also about your daily tasks and your mindset. You see the good and the bad in different places where you live. We want you to take the good and use it to build yourself and your nation. Learn from the bad to protect yourself and your country from it," President Kagame said.

Over the course of five weeks, Indangamirwa XI trainees learned basic military training, intelligence and counterterrorism, and received political education where they studied the country's history and discussed the National Strategy for Transformation. The trainees also conducted study tours to different places across the country.

11. Case for a revised Itorero training scheme for high school leavers.

The Aegis Trust through its Research, Policy and Higher Education program hosted a research for policy seminar at the Kigali Genocide Memorial on Wednesday, 19 December 2018. The <sup>event was a success</sup> relevant findings in the working paper conducted by Dr. Sylvestre Nzahabwanayo, who recently authored a deeply researched paper on Identification and Critique of the Citizenship Notion Informing the Itorero Training Scheme for High School Leavers in Post-Genocide Rwanda. The event was attended by academics, representatives from the National Itorero Commission and practitioners.

Citizenship education is an ongoing process of teaching and sharing cultural values mostly for the post genocide governance. Itorero citizenship education program is one of the initiatives that are in place to train Rwandans into becoming patriotic citizens and engage in the country's development process. Dr. Sylvestre who conducted a research on citizenship notion among intore (those who have gone through the Itorero), shared his findings with the participants who engaged him in a pluralistic discussion around key findings and specific choice of words. Among the key findings, he noted that according to the Itorero training, a good citizen is one who obeys the law, is loyal to the state, is a role model, preserves the community's common good and respects the community's core values.

After his presentation, Dr. Philbert Gakwenzire gave a few insights on the findings presented. He noted that the term "post genocide" is more than just a period and does not necessarily refer to the question of
